Election/Restrictions

1. The reply to the previous restriction requirement dated May 2, 2008, is acknowledged and Claims 28-33 have been withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on May 2, 2008.

2. Previously examiner required restriction between inventions which lacked a general inventive concept. Upon further consideration the Examiner has determined that the elected group of claims lack unity of invention and require further grouping. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

- Group I, claim(s) 1-11, 24 and 25, drawn to a method for foam molding under a pressurized condition of the mold.
- Group II, claim(s) 12-23, 26 and 27, drawn to an apparatus for foam molding under a pressurized condition of the mold.

3. The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the common technical feature of foam molding under pressure to control foaming fails to provide contribution to the art as this technical feature is known in the art (see Sulzbach (US Patent No. 5,834,527)). She claims lack a special technical feature, a holding that these two groups do not relate to a single general inventive concept is proper.

4. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows and apply to both Groups I and II above:

Species I: requires a special technical feature of a foamable material adhering to around a surface of a core member

Species II: which requires the special technical feature of a foamable material filling into a hollow casing.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

5. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Group I Species I includes claim 24.

Group I Species II includes claim 25.

Group II Species I includes claim 26.

Group II Species II includes claim 27

The following claim(s) are generic: Claims 1-11 are generic to Group I species and Claims 12-23 are generic to Group II species.

6. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: foam molding under pressure is known in the art and therefore the claims lack a special technical feature.

7. A telephone call was made to Michael S. Huppert on July 1, 2008 to request an oral election to the restriction requirement below, but did not result in an election being made.
